

B-2 Add New Information

Create records that describe evolution over time

Add New Information

Add new information, e.g. a new document in the Condition & Conservation module of an Artefact.

New Information to be integrated

During the creation of a new document, the user has to enter information into pre-defined input fields. Every module provides a set of different document types. E.g. condition report, conservation report, etc.

Allocation in Module Archive

To add documents, which describe an artwork state at a specific date and time, it is possible to add a new document at any point in the history of an artefact.

Module Growth

As additional records and details are added to the module over time, the archive and history of the artefact expands.
